

WORDS FROM PROMINENT SUPPORTERS

[The Brotherhood/Sister Sol] is using their passion to uplift and inspire a next generation through extraordinary work that creates leaders and a sanctuary for children . . . where their members can develop a higher vision of themselves.

In the middle of one of the poorest and most drug-infested neighborhoods in New York City, youth that join The Brotherhood/Sister Sol family learn about respect, responsibility, choices, and the importance of community involvement. They build positive peer relationships, gain self-confidence, and develop leadership skills. The Brotherhood/Sister Sol encourages members to think about and focus on making decisions that have positive consequences.

The Brotherhood/Sister Sol is dedicated to providing support services and guidance to the youth of New York City, including a great many African American and Latino youth who reside in my congressional district... [They are] struggling to ensure that African American and Latino youth do not choose the dead-end path of drugs, crime and prison. I believe that The Brotherhood/Sister Sol organization plays a critically important role working with youth who are most at risk.

I believe so deeply in the life-saving work that The Brotherhood/Sister Sol is dedicated to: values and skills building that empower young people and keep them on course; helping young people to see and develop the extraordinary within themselves; ensuring their safe passage to adulthood. It is surely one of the most incredible organizations in the nation. Their work is catalytic! Their leadership, their services and outcomes are without peer. Simply put, The Brotherhood/Sister Sol does the work that few others will or even know how to do.... They have answered the call to repair the village, to secure the children. It's our responsibility to ensure they have all they need to do God's work

What brought me to Brotherhood/Sister Sol is that this organization is attempting to find relevant solutions to the desperate situations facing our young people in the community. The services they provide are invaluable. They are a significant island in a vast sea.

I know the work of this organization and see it as providing an invaluable asset to young people of color in New York City. Khary Lazarre-White and Jason Warwin have done an amazing job of assembling a staff and identifying the kinds of support that are needed by the youth with whom they work.
